Start-up nation Israel has long produced companies with revolutionary ideas. Yet, recently an Israeli real estate company introduced something which is unheard of – a guarantee on money which is invested.

How? Online Real Estate Investment Management Company iintoo Investments just launched a product which provides principal protection – basically an insurance product supported by Everest, one of the world’s largest insurance companies. Principal protection basically means that the money invested will at the very least be returned – beating any 401k, hedge fund or anything else for risk-averse investors.

Not surprisingly, the company is seeing major success. Via crowd-funding, the company opens up access to real-estate projects which they have vetted – and people can invest amounts as small as $10,000.

iintoo studies all investments and reviews all the numbers to make sure money can't be lost – and they are supported by insurance from one of the world’s largest insurance companies.

Start-up nation is at it again – revolutionizing how people invest. Eran Roth, the company’s founder says of the product, “This is true peace of mind real estate investing.”

The company recently announced for the year a 16.48 percent average annual return on investment – and has assets totaling $850 million. So while you may not make super high yields, with iintoo your money is safe.
