- Strategies and approaches allies can action to lean into discomfort, engage in difficult conversations, and move towards advocacy.
- Types of inclusive behaviors and actions employees should take to cultivate an environment of psychological safety and belonging.
- An approach to collectively address inequities in the workplace and speak up when disparities are observed.
- Factors to consider when well-intentioned DEI programs miss the mark and negatively impact employee engagement and mental health.
- How organizations can gain a competitive stance for recruitment, hiring, retention, and advancement of systemically excluded communities.
- Success factors that should be considered by organizations for cross-mentoring, internships, and bringing on new hires – in alignment with Gen Z's expectations.
