

“Sticky Crises” and Industry Trends

Free Virtual Event: November 19, 6-7:30 pm ET

The Museum of Public Relations

“Sticky Crises” and Industry Trends

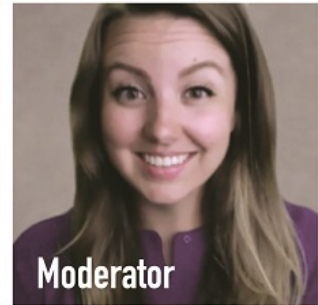

Timothy Coombs
Texas A&M University

Richard Levick
Levick

Carl Turner
Klick

Taylor Voges
University of Georgia

Thought leaders Dr. Tim Coombs, Richard Levick, and Carl Turner will provide insights into what “sticky” crises mean today. Sticky crises are those that just go on and on or keep raising their heads. Think Whac-a-Mole. Recent organizational crises brought on by the pandemic, a difficult economy, and political and social unrest, will serve as fodder for what promises to be an important conversation on trends in crisis communication.

Department of Advertising
& Public Relations

Grady College of Journalism and Mass Communication

UNIVERSITY OF GEORGIA

The Museum
of Public Relations

commPRO.biz

MUCK
RACK

Thursday, November 19, 2020 6–7:30pm ET

REGISTER

About

Thought leaders Dr. Tim Coombs, Richard Levick, and Carl Turner will provide insights into what “sticky” crises mean today. Sticky crises are those that just go on and on or keep raising their heads. Think Whac-a-Mole. Recent organizational crises brought on by the pandemic, a difficult economy, and political and social unrest, will serve as fodder for what promises to be an important conversation on trends in crisis communication.

Thursday, November 19, 2020 6–7:30pm ET

Register for this free event...