

The LGBTQ Experience in Public Relations

LGBTQ Rights On the Line: The Role of Communicators Advocating for Equality

The Museum of Public Relations presents...

Free Virtual Event, June 2, 6 – 8 pm ET

The recent leak of an upcoming Supreme Court ruling on Roe v. Wade is only the latest attack on equality in America. As LGBTQ communicators and reporters now, the LGBTQ community has been under attack in state houses and communities nationwide.

Pride Month this year will be more meaningful than ever with rights for so many Americans literally on the line. Join us for a conversation with leading LGBTQ communicators from advocacy organizations, agencies and corporations along with leading LGBTQ journalists and advocates.

EMCEE & MODERATOR

Ben Finzel, President,
RENEWPR

FIRESIDE CHAT

Miguel Marquez, Senior
National Correspondent, CNN

INDEPENDENT PERSPECTIVE

Charlotte Clymer, writer, transgender activist,
communications consultant,
and military veteran

WRAP UP

Phil Nardone, President and Founder, PAN Communications

Panel One: The Advocacy and Media Community Perspective

Rich Ferraro, Chief
Communications Officer,
GLAAD

Cathy Renna,
Communications Director,
National LGBTQ Task Force

Shin Inouye, Executive Vice President of Communications,
The Leadership Conference on Civil and Human Rights

Jared DeWese, Deputy Director for Communications for Climate and Energy, Third Way

Tracy Baim, publisher, Chicago
Reader, and founder, Windy
City Times

Panel Two: The Corporate, Agency and Media Community Perspective

Eboné Bell, Founder and Editor-in-Chief, Tagg Magazine

Bryan Limon, Director, Branding, Digital, and ESG, Vested

Travis Parman, Chief Communications Officer, AppHarvest

Laura Nguyen, Vice President, Digital Marketing, Intoxalock

Ivette LópezFreeman, Director, PR & Corporate Communications, Warner Bros. Discovery

Thanks to our Sponsors

Sponsored in part by Grady College of Journalism and Mass Communication at the University of Georgia; TV One; Renew PR; Page; Diversity Action Alliance (DAA); Muck Rack; and CommPRO.

